Dedication

When the pastoral staff, so long held in the hands of His Eminence Cardinal Dougherty, was gently and approvingly removed by the Angel of Death, the call to shepherd our spiritual destinies came to you, beloved Archbishop O'Hara. The great Catholic heart of Philadelphia throbbed in the dominant note of exultant joy when the news of your appointment reached us, but to Catholic youth especially was the announcement truly welcome, for your name, Most Reverend Archbishop, has long been identified with every wholesome movement for the welfare of young men. We know that a whole nation of virile Catholic men gladly hold your name and your priestly effort in grateful benediction. God alone can tell the number of men who were influenced for good by the inspiring messages that came from your active pen when you held the exalted position of Prefect of Religion at Notre Dame. Later as President of this great institution you earned a reputation for leadership and genius in construction that will not fade with time. May God reward you abundantly!

The Senior Class of La Salle College, truly mindful of the kindness of Almighty God in sending you to rule over us, extends a hearty welcome and wishes you a long and happy reign as our Archbishop. We pray that your humility and charity will be exemplified in our lives and be the guiding light in the paths we shall follow. We promise, too, in fulfillment of the lessons imparted in this school and sustained by your prayers, to lead lives that will always be your joy and consolation.

In these sentiments of profound esteem we beg you to both regard us as willing and loyal sheep of your flock, and permit us to dedicate the La Salle Explorer of 1952 to you.

MOST REVEREND JOHN F. O'HARA, C.S.C., D.D.

Archbishop of Philadelphia

Saint John Baptist De La Salle (1651-1719)

Founder of the Institute of the Brothers of the Christian Schools, Patron of All Teachers, Patron of La Salle College.

The central theme of Catholic life must be an ever-constant awareness of the existence of God and our allegiance to Him. As Christian lives are dominated by the spiritual, so should this profession have an external manifestation. It is in the chapel that we worship, thank, and beseech the Supreme Being upon Whom we are eternally dependent and to Whom we owe so much.

On the extreme southeast corner of the quadrangle is situated the grotto of Our Lady of Lourdes. Kneeling before Our Lady is the humble Bernadette, awestruck with fascination at the beautiful sight which she has been privileged to behold. May we too be permitted to vision as did Bernadette. May we too possess the simplicity of this holy child of Mary.

Located in the center of the quadrangle, and facing the Brothers' House is the statue of the Sacred Heart, its extended arms imparting peace to all who revere it. Before it, and resting above a plaque upon which is inscribed the names of La Salle men who have made the supreme sacrifice, is a flickering candlelight, a constant reminder of the omnipresence of the Almighty.

Perhaps the most familiar site on campus is the main entrance at Nineteenth Street and Olney Avenue. The plaques offered by the various graduating classes can be seen in the lower left and right-hand corners of this beautiful Gothic edifice, which is constructed of "La Salle" brick.

Right: College Hall viewed from Twentieth and Olney Avenues.

Above: Students streaming from College Hall past the Brothers' House. The Spire can be seen in the upper background.

Right: The ivy-covered Tower of College Hall as seen from the east end of the campus.

Left: Entrance to the College Fieldhouse where thirty-four consecutive basketball victories have been posted against a variety of opponents.

Below: Benilde Hall, in which are situated classrooms and faculty offices. Named in memory of Blessed Brother Benilde, it was dedicated in September of 1948.

This quiet looking building is Leonard Hall, the student lounge, normally filled to capacity during school hours.

With the arrival of Spring, a familiar scene on La Salle's campus is its beautiful baseball diamond, where members of last year's Co-Middle Atlantic Champions can be seen working out in preparation for another successful season.

Student Council

After four years of relative inactivity, the Student Council this year sprung into motion as Frank Conaty led it through its most active and useful term since its inauguration at La Salle.

First on the list of its achievements was the Blood Donor Drive which netted over two hundred pints of blood for the Korean campaign.

Following this, a campaign for used clothing was conducted, also culminating in success.

Appreciative of the victorious efforts of the basketball team in the National Invitation Tournament, Council sponsored three magnificent rallies and twice led the students in colorful motorcades throughout the city.

Publicity director Harry Reckner and chairman Frank Conaty are congratulated by Brother Thomas on the success of the drive for "Clothes for Korea."

William Keiser and Edward Verdeur display blood they have donated, to Brother George Thomas, moderator of Student Council.

The driving forces behind the Blood Donor Program: Harry Reckner, Frank Conaty, and chairman Anthony Polcino.

Captured here is just the reason why the Collegian experienced one of its greatest years. Henry Largay, seated, John Di Sangro, John Keenan, Joseph McLean, and Edward Graham examine the previous issue for mistakes, seeking to eliminate them from further issues.

The Collegian continued its post-war climb in quality and quantity in 1951-52, finally reaching its climax with a gigantic issue honoring the N.I.T. Champs. Editor Joseph Gavin and his hard working crew were rewarded with Collegian Keys at the Annual Banquet at the Pen and Pencil Club. M. Daniel Rodden, newly-appointed moderator, officiated the affair and turned over the reins to the incoming junior headed by James Sanzare.

Red Smith, noted sports columnist, was honored by the newspaper with its Fourth Annual Collegian Award. Previous recipients included Ed Sullivan, Morley Cassidy, and Bob Considine.

Direct, objective news articles, improved sports coverage and informative, entertaining features; all of these combined to make the 1951-52 year the Collegian's greatest.

LAYOUT SHEET

Sports Editor John Di Sangro and Henry Largay, Intramural Editor, ponder over the layout for the Sports section.

"Do you think I can do cartoons on them?" Art Editor Edward Graham asks Business Manager Richard Kloos.

Red Smith, noted sports writer, accepts the Collegian Award from Joseph Gavin, retiring Editor, as Brother G. Paul, President, and Mr. Daniel Rodden, moderator, look on.

Glee Club

A favorite rendition is presented by the club at its first annual Winterlude Whirl in the college auditorium.

The Glee Club offers to those who enjoy singing an opportunity to do so under capable supervision. Academic credit is given for participation while a spirit of fellowship prevails at all times. Under the direction of Father William Sailer, renowned for his choral work, the Glee Club in three short years has become one of the most active organizations on the campus. The Club greatly benefited this year by the untiring efforts of its moderator, Brother M. Robert.

Throughout the academic year the group performed before many and varied audiences, including benefit organizations, local high schools, and through the media of radio and television. An annual tour was made outside of the Philadelphia area and the scholastic season was brought to a close with the Annual Spring Concert. A Double Quartet added to the variety of the performances.

John Daly, Richard Clancy, Benjamin Tumolo, and Robert Bolsover of the double quartet respond to the energetic gestures of Father Sailer as Donald Berkheimer, John Mallon, Fredrick Wozniak, and Frank Barrett await the cue to join in. Rudy Kremer accompanies.

Accounting Association

Striving to attain the position it held in former years as one of the most active clubs on campus, the Accounting Association this year embarked upon an ambitious program of dinners, lectures, and socials. Under the guidance of Mr. Kaiser, moderator, and Thomas Hallinan, president, the Association held its first dinner before the La Salle-Eastern Kentucky basketball game. The varied socials following this affair produced an amazing innovation. Ordinarily a club which prefers its events "stag," the accountants broke precedent by holding a number of "mixed" dinner rallies.

Academic aims were realized through the inauguration of a series of lectures on basic accounting principles presented to underclassmen by senior majors. The program, though it met with only fair success due to poor attendance, nonetheless afforded the members an opportunity to apply practically the principles acquired in classroom study.

Club officers: Thomas Hallinan, Michael Sassi, James Brooks, and seated, Thomas Blessington.

HARVEST DANCE

Initiating the social season at La Salle, the nineteenth annual Harvest Dance, one of the most successful of the series, took place at the Broadwood Hotel on November second. Approximately three hundred and fifty students and their guests danced to the syncopated stylings of Tom Darlington and his "Music of the Years." The dance marked the first time that the Evening Division officially participated in a joint student activity, with a large group representing that section of the college in attendance. As is customary, proceeds from the informal went to the Christian Brothers' motherhouse at Ammdendale, Maryland.

Hard working committee members James Gibbons, David Rumsey, Rudy Kalozi, William Metzler, and Dominic Iannetoni take time out to pose next to one of the many colorful posters advertising the dance.

Out-of-Towners

PITTSBURGH 293
CHICAGO 758
LOS ANGELES 2874

To those students who do not reside in the immediate Philadelphia area, the Out-of-Towners Club affords a medium through which they may cultivate new friendships in a strange environment. The purposes of the club are purely social. Traditionally, the organization has been the envy of those whose proximity to the campus has made them ineligible for membership. It has grown famous for its lavish parties and stags as well as for the binding sense of fellowship characteristic of its members.

Indirectly, the fame and fortune captured by all of La Salle's teams can be attributed to the managers of the various sports. James O'Connor, President of the Praefectus Club, has endeavored to inaugurate a system whereby no team, at any time, will remain without the valuable services of a manager. This club has been formed to give recognition to those students, who whole-heartedly contribute their time and energy as varsity managers, by awarding to each deserving member a blazer, symbolic of his unheralded labors.

The Praefectus Club

Society for the Advancement of Management

Members of the S.A.M. executive council: Edward Guertin, Gerald Monaghan, Gerald Porter, Leo Dooley, John Lins, Thomas Feeney, Richard Kloos, Edward Hurley, and President Joseph McCarty.

Mainly through the efforts of its president, Joseph McCarty, the Society for the Advancement of Management, this year, more than fulfilled the aims for which it was founded. Throughout the year, lecturers noted in their particular fields graced the platform at the many S.A.M. meetings. Field trips were conducted for the purpose of acclimating members with actual plant conditions. The Society's busy program culminated with a career conference held in early April.

The Gavel

Probably no other campus organization reaps for its members the benefits which are offered by the Gavel. The demands which it places upon their resources engender in them the confidence characteristic of seasoned orators. The many hours of necessary research were fruitful to this year's team as they concluded a victorious season with triumphs in over eighty per cent of their meets. The schedule included such forensic luminaries as Loyola, Johns Hopkins, Navy, Georgetown, and Pennsylvania University.

President Joseph Walsh compliments the club at the completion of a successful trip.

The Explorer

RUDOLPH KALOZI—Editor-in-Chief

Rudy co-ordinated the production of the entire annual, allotting to each section the proper amount of space, and determining an orderly sequence for the various divisions of the book. His contribution cannot be limited to any one section of the book, since his aid proved invaluable to each of the subordinate editors.

EDWARD GRAHAM—Art Editor

A good deal of the yearbook's rareness is to be credited to Ed's fine artistic prowess. The outside cover design, as well as all of the humorous divider pages throughout, attest to Ed's outstanding ability at the drawing board.

ANDREW BERTUCCI—Activities Editor

Give Andy a pair of scissors, a pen, and a bottle of ink, and the result will prove to be an outstanding layout. The entire activities section is representative of Andy's unique creative ability and artistic talent.

JOHN McMENAMIN—

Associate Editor

It was John who undertook the unenviable task of rostering the schedule for senior portraits in such a manner that no one was put to inconvenience. Much of the copy throughout is also representative of "Mac's" lavish mastery over words.

JOHN DUGAN—Business Manager

Besides the full-time job of manipulating the finances of the annual, John also found time to assist in the production of practically every other section of the book. Without his indispensable help, it is doubtful that the annual could have ever met its deadline.

JOHN DI SANGRO—Sports Editor

Probably no other La Salle man is better acquainted with the fortunes of La Salle athletic representatives than John Di Sangro. His intimate contact with the members of the various teams served him in good stead in composing the sports section.

"This has got to go," says Andy Bertucci, talented Activities Editor, as Rudy Kalozi, in the interest of art, resignedly accepts the loss of one more friend.

The aim of the 1952 Explorer staff was to provide the graduating class with a yearbook both extensive in coverage and unique in form. The staff hopes that any inadequacies which may appear will be more than compensated for by the many outstanding features of the annual. The Explorer extends its sincere gratitude to the many students who aided the staff in accomplishing its work, and in particular to Joseph Gavin, Collegian Editor, who compiled the Class History, and Brother Clementian, moderator, without whose valuable guidance the publication of the annual would not have been possible.

There is no doubt that John Di Sangro is relating to John McMenamin one of the humorous tales about the N.I.T.

Art Editor Edward Graham puts the finishing touches on the Blue and Gold layout as staff member Leo Dooley offers advice.

The financial "Brain Trust" of the Explorer, John Dugan and Tom Blessington, appear concerned over an arising business transaction.

The Podium Society

This year a unique change in the policy of the Podium Society here at La Salle was effected. Along with its weekly recorded concerts consisting of excerpts from operas and symphonies, as well as the presentation of data concerning the works and lives of the great composers, the membership this year also treated itself to the more progressive music of the modern era. In addition, a number of evening programs were held at which members and their guests enjoyed the varied recorded interludes derived from the Society's large collection of recorded music.

Due principally to the efforts of its president, Ernest Gunn, the Society, one of the oldest on the campus, rose from the relative inactivity of the past few years to a position of prominence at La Salle.

The Radio Club

The Radio Club is an academic organization existing primarily for the benefit of those interested in the mechanical, electronic, and other technical aspects of radio. During the past year, instructions on radio fundamentals, electronic equipment, and the Morse Code were given by members of the club and by the physics department. Although formal meetings were seldom held, the members met regularly to demonstrate the apparatus they had built, to discuss common problems, and to provide assistance to the other members in their construction and repair work. As a means of gaining personal skill in the art of electronics, certain members undertook the task of building technical equipment for the various laboratories on the campus.

Thomas Truman and James Bacon visualize the success of the Radio Club's work in the completed television tube which pictures Brother Gerardian Joseph puzzled over the experiment of Thomas Miller and Paul Moser.

The Marketing Association

Chartered in June of 1951, the Marketing Association, though a comparative newcomer to student activities, nonetheless was able to boast a membership of over sixty students. The two-fold purpose of the club is: first, to foster an interest in the field of marketing, itself, and second, to promote high ethical standards within the field.

Mainly academic in nature, the club nevertheless offered a varied program of social activities. Interspersed among the regular weekly business meetings were assemblages at which noted authorities in the field of sales addressed the club, as well as those at which the more convivial atmosphere of good fellowship prevailed.

In its initial year, the club proved a successful medium through which marketing majors could jointly undertake common social and academic activities. Its continued success in the future appears assured.

President Richard Emerson and Moderator Mr. John MacIntyre discuss policy measures for the youthful organization.

The Herbert S. Weber Society

The Herbert S. Weber Society, organized for the discussion of English, inaugurated a policy this year of holding informal meetings in the homes of instructors and students. At these gatherings, students and teachers met in an atmosphere of friendly ease to thrash out problems in literature, writing, and related fields.

A number of distinguished guests joined the members at these meetings. In this manner, the group was able to touch upon a great variety of topics. Scholarship, for example, was represented by Dr. Morse Peckham of the University of Pennsylvania; short story writing by Joseph Coogan of Immaculata College; and painting by Joseph Mintzer, water color artist. A number of other specialists talked on the relationship between literature and the various arts and sciences.

The Blue and Gold Ball

Committee members and guests pose with moderator Brother G. Thomas at the Bellevue.

Traditionally the highlight of the social season at La Salle, the Blue and Gold Ball this year was held at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, January eighteenth. Over three hundred students and their guests danced to the continuous entertainment of Howard Lanin's society orchestra. A unique feature of the dance was the distribution, as favors, of miniature multi-colored mugs emblazoned with the college seal.

Co-Chairmen Joseph Walsh and William Kieser deserve much of the credit for making the formal the obvious social success it was. Ably assisting this duo were other committee heads: Paul Curcio, Program; Francis Conaty, Anthony Polcino, and Francis Hodgson, Band; Joseph Kriz, and Gerald Corkery, Tickets. Stanton Shelton was treasurer.

Le Cercle Claudel

Le Cercle Claudel, organized to bring together students interested in French language and culture, has the reputation of being one of the most stable organizations on the campus. Named in honor of the exemplary French Catholic poet, Paul Claudel, the Cercle, under the direction of Doctor John Guishard, moderator, and David Anthony, president, has succeeded in bringing to its many members a greater appreciation of French society. Typical group activities during the year included literary talks and discussions, visits to points of French cultural interest, and attendance at French cinemas, plays, operas, concerts, and art exhibits.

Il Circolo Lasalliano

Initiated at La Salle last year, The Circolo Lasalliano has rapidly become one of the foremost campus organizations. Under the enthusiastic guidance of Brother M. Robert, moderator, the membership quickly swelled to the maximum proportions. In keeping with its socio-academic aims, the club, as well as conducting a varied social program, also presented weekly lectures on the many facets of Italian literature and art. Highlighting the year's social activities was a reception in honor of the newly arrived Italian consul, Doctor Lodovico Barattieri.

The Dornenburg Society

The Dornenburg Society exists on the La Salle campus for the purpose of encouraging interest in German language and culture. Members prepare papers on the many phases of German music, art, and philosophy which are presented to the group for discussion. The club has established friendly relations with similar organizations in other colleges and universities in the area, and has participated with them on various occasions during the year in symposia on German history and culture.

El Club Hispano

Organized for the purpose of providing a closer liaison between Spanish students and their department as well as for facilitating the social and cultural relations of students of that language, El Club Hispano this year experienced a revived interest. Films depicting Spanish life and folklore as well as talks by students and faculty members on phases of Spanish culture comprised much of the organization's activity. A fitting climax to the year's schedule of events was a trip to New York for the purpose of visiting the many places of Spanish interest located there.

Chymian Society

President Thomas Krebs explains the intricacies of one of the newly acquired pieces of apparatus to interested members.

The Chymian Society, organized in 1949 as a chapter of the American Chemical Society, for the purpose of fostering interest in chemistry, is open only to chemistry majors. Bi-weekly meetings were held at which lectures by prominent speakers in the field, movies, and learned papers were presented.

This year the organization sponsored the second annual Student Employment Conference, which was held at Leonard Hall. The purpose of the conference was to provide a convenient method of contact between prospective employers and chemistry students seeking employment.

Members: standing, Robert Hafey, David Anthony, Robert Bolsover; kneeling, William Sullivan, and Michael Sikorski.

Alpha Psi

Early last fall, The Cercle Claudel, cognizant of the advantages to be secured in joint effort, sought to affiliate with Pi Delta Phi, the National French Honor Society. The application for a chapter charter was unanimously approved by the National Executive Committee and on December twelfth, the Alpha Psi chapter of Pi Delta Phi was formally established at La Salle. Alpha Psi is the forty-seventh chapter founded since the establishment of Pi Delta Phi in 1906. The purpose of the society, as defined in the charter, is to foment a wider knowledge of and a greater love for the contributions of France to world culture.

Sigma Beta Kappa

Combining social activities with a program of Catholic Action in youth welfare, the Gamma Chapter of Sigma Beta Kappa experienced what probably amounted to its most successful year since its formation on the La Salle campus. Among the many social events sponsored by the "frat," were the Annual Thanksgiving Dance, proceeds from which went to St. John's Orphanage in West Philadelphia, traditional beneficiary of fraternity activities, and the Toy Dance, the admission price of which was a toy to be used at the Annual Christmas Party held for the benefit of the orphans.

Much of the Chapter's work consisted in the rostering of an intramural football league at the Orphanage, and in the presentation of awards to those youngsters who excelled in individual events.

Climaxing the social schedule in February, the "frat" held its Annual Mardi Gras Ball at the Whitemarsh Country Club.

The 1951-52 academic year saw a rise in both interest and membership in the activities of the International Relations Club. The ambitious program of I.R.C. was marked by a series of lectures interspersed with field trips to various cities. With the cooperation of the Regional I.R.C. Commission and the World Affairs Council, this program was possible. Lectures were geared to acquaint the membership with contemporary affairs, as evidenced by those given on "The Diplomatic Relations of the United States and The Vatican," and "Immorality in Government."

Following a trip to New York and the United Nations, a three day trip was made to Washington, D. C. The Congress, The State Department, The Pan American Union, and the various embassies were visited. The highly successful year was climaxed with an All-Asian Conference and Banquet in May.

The Caisson Club, organized last year at La Salle, is an association sponsored by the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. Its primary aims are to promote friendship among the cadets and to encourage and maintain a high standard of military education in the college. Membership in the club is limited to outstanding students in the second year basic course and the advanced course. Among the numerous social and academic functions in which it participated, the club sponsored the Annual Military Ball, which this year attracted over two hundred cadets and their guests. The outstanding feature of the dance is that each cadet is required to come attired in full dress uniform.

Alpha Epsilon Delta

Since its inception in April 1950, the Pennsylvania Chapter of the Alpha Epsilon Delta has been one of the most active societies on the La Salle campus. Its principal aim is to encourage excellence in pre-medical scholarship through the promotion of closer student-educator cooperation. Monthly meetings are held at which films, distinguished speakers, and research papers are presented to broaden the student's background. In addition to these, the Chapter sponsors the Eastern Pennsylvania Pre-Medical Conference to enable interested students to become better acquainted with the various medical schools of the area.

Among the other activities sponsored by the Pennsylvania Delta Chapter this year, was the student chest X-ray program undertaken with the aid of the Philadelphia Tuberculosis and Health Association. Over six hundred La Salle men took advantage of this service during the first week of school.

The Fabrician Society

The Fabrician Society this year engaged in a full schedule of events designed to provide its members with a more intimate knowledge of the medical profession. Open meetings were held at which papers and movies were presented on the various facets of medical life. Climaxing the year's activities was an assemblage at the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy, which included a tour of the hospital and college and a lecture by the dean of the school.

Newtonian Society

The Newtonian Society is an academic organization devoted to the interests of students in the physical sciences. It is primarily a discussion club. Members are called upon to prepare topics of general scientific interest and to present them before the Society for discussion. The subjects chosen usually deal with new inventions and theories which are of such a nature as to be conducive to argumentation. Some of the subjects discussed this year were "Guided Missiles," the "Proximity Fuse," "Pathology in Humans," and "Sensitive Flames."

The Society does not exist for what may be termed "lofty" motives. It exists because its members derive pleasure from flexing their intellectual muscles. Its meetings provide an atmosphere in which friendly arguments are encouraged. In effect, the Society accepts the advice of Francis Bacon: "Reading maketh a full man; conference, a ready man."

The activities of the Newtonian Society were not limited to discussions, however. Occasionally, lectures were given by faculty members and invited guests. Visits to government and industrial laboratories, scientific demonstrations, lectures, and exhibits were included in the Society's agenda. Members were encouraged to work on scientific projects and to give demonstrations of their handiwork.

Properly directing the motion of the club and causing the wheels of activity to revolve are the ideas of the officers:

Varsity Club

Open only to men who have earned varsity awards, the Varsity Club is primarily a social organization. This year, however, the group sponsored many activities beneficial, not only to the membership, but to the college as a whole. Notable among these were the presentation of a trophy case to the school and the inauguration of an annual "Letterman's Day" at which athletes of former years were feted. The Club was also instrumental in securing the cheerleaders so much in evidence at La Salle sporting events.

Mr. James Henry, Director of Athletics, and President Henry Backe admire some of the trophies in the newly purchased trophy case presented to the college by the club.

"Okay, Herm," William Zwaan, Harry Agnew, and John McKay seem to say as Henry Backe outlines his plans to maneuver a calendar date for one of the club's events.

Under the direction of Mr. Willard Walsh, the La Salle College Theatre, assisted by the Masque and Foil of the College of Chestnut Hill, engaged in the production of three plays. The season opened with the popular fantasy, "Harvey," featuring Francis Bonner and Anne Branagan in lead roles. Following this production, Maxwell Anderson's metropolitan melodrama, "Winterset," opened for the usual three day engagement. Received warmly by the audience in attendance, the play starred Charles Smith and Eileen Downey as Mio and Miriamne, respectively. The season was brought to a close with "Watch the Curtain," an original musical by Ray Saraceni.

Senior Class Officers

Once again the Senior Class was fortunate in having as leaders as outstanding a group of men as could be found on any campus. Their ability to make a success of any function, whether large or small, attests to both their interest and their tremendous talent for organizing. Not only heeding the wishes of the Senior Class as expressed through the Advisory Board, the officers were most efficacious in integrating the activities of the various campus organizations.

Senior Advisory Board

The Senior Advisory Board serves two useful functions. First, it expresses opinion which enables the Class Officers to decide which projects should be undertaken, and second, it carries official policy decisions to completion through personal contact with class members.

The success of the yearbook is due in no small measure to the activity of this group, which undertook the burdensome task of collecting subscriptions. Seniors are well familiar with the red receipt book which haunted them throughout the year and with the Board members whose relentless efforts contributed so greatly to the success of the annual.

Basketball - Our Fiftieth Anniversary

La Salle College's entry into intercollegiate basketball occurred in 1902, and succeeding years have witnessed the ascendance of her teams from the depths of relative obscurity to the apex of national prominence. The name "La Salle" has been worn on the jerseys of such fine performers as Clem and Joe Meehan, Charlie Mosicant, Ray Bahr, Frank Hoerst, Ed Krupa, and Charley McGlone, and in more recent times by other groups of outstanding athletes.

Construction of La Salle's contemporary basketball empire was inaugurated in 1946-47, when a 19-5 record was posted under the captaincy of Bob Walters, an All-City selection and Pennsylvania State scoring leader. This year also marked the initial appearances of later-day stars Larry Foust, Frank Comerford, and Ace McCann, who, collaborating with Captain Fred Bernhardt and Joe Greenberg, led the Olney Heights quintet in 1948 to a 19-4 season which was rewarded with a bid to the National Invitation Tournament, the first such offer in the College's history. Opti-

Stu Tompkins who contributed brilliantly to the then-greatest season in Blue and Gold annals.

Captain Jim Phelan led his teammates to a commendable season in 1950-51, and on the basis of their sparkling performances they were selected for the third time to appear in the N.I.T. But the same story again prevailed—the wrong team on the wrong night—as a hot-handed St. Louis combine won going away in a torrid exhibition of second half shooting.

The Golden Jubilee season opened auspiciously but still afforded no inkling of the great things to come. Despite the loss of army bound Jack George, the La Salle five nevertheless proceeded on its conquering way, vanquishing opponents—some highly regarded, some unfavorably regarded. An inconsistent season was brightened by victories over Western Kentucky, Eastern Kentucky, Murray State, and Pennsylvania, but marred by losses to St. Louis, Duquesne, Youngstown, and Georgetown. Immediately pre-mism was soon dispelled when a top-seeded Western Kentucky five handed the game Explorers a 68-61 setback in the tourney's opening round.

Late season losses to Manhattan and North Carolina State ruined La Salle's chances of winning a berth in the 1949 N.I.T. However, the Explorers were selected to compete in the Cincinnati Invitation Tournament held in that year, only to lose in the finals to the host whom they had previously defeated in the Ohio city during regular season play.

The classy 1949-50 squad compiled an enviable 20-3 record and was awarded for its efforts the school's second bid to participate in the N.I.T. After subduing a fast-breaking Arizona team in their first tourney start, they fell, 49-47, before the powerful Duquesne Dukes in an exciting but disappointing quarter-final fracas. This encounter was the final appearance in La Salle uniform for Captain Frank Comerford, Larry Foust, Ace McCann, Inky Gallagher, and ceding the annual Manhattan game at New York, it was announced that La Salle had been included among the 1952 N.I.T. participants. The events that followed are glorious history, too numerous to be considered here, but presently to be related.

During the years, fortune has smiled approvingly on the Olney Heights quintets, but upon none so benevolently as on this most recent team. We, the student body, have been privileged to attend La Salle in this, the year of her most fabulous athletic achievement. Constantly aware of the magnificence which its stars have displayed and ever thankful for the presence of such excellent performers—led by playmaking Buddy Donnelly, driving Newt Jones, fiery Norm Grekin, sharpshooting Fred Lehle, rebounding Jack Moore, and irrepressible Tom Gola, we now take tremendous pride in presenting

JAMES HENRY, Our Athletic Director

Much of the success of the present day Explorers in Intercollegiate sports can be attributed to our Director of Athletics, Jim Henry. Mr. Henry's job, among other things, is to arrange an attractive schedule, plan trips for the team and see that the team and coach are well equipped.

We are sure that the great improvement that has existed in sports in the past twenty years at La Salle is no mere coincidence, but can be attributed to the untiring, unselfish efforts that have been so capably carried out by our Director of Athletics. There is no question that when one mentions the name of La Salle it would not be complete without adding the name of Jim Henry.

KEN LOEFFLER, Coach of the Year

During his three year tenure at La Salle, the colorful "little red-faced man in the brown suit" (he also has a gray one), led his charges to a 68-18 record for an impressive .790 average. In this period, La Salle won three City Championship titles and was thrice selected to compete in the National Invitation Tournament. The culmination of his efforts was the victorious surge of the Explorers in the 1952 N.I.T., a deserving reward for an excellent coach.

Our Own 1952

The Opener

Pre-season predictions ranked the Explorer Hoopsters seventeenth. Coach Ken Loeffler considered that too high a rating, for a team that had but four men with any considerable game-time experience and several substitutes who hadn't proven that they could play 40 minutes of top-notch ball.

But even before the Golden Anniversary at La Salle College had begun its season, lightning struck. Jack George, our All-American Candidate, was inducted into the Armed Service on the opening day of the campaign, leaving Coach Loeffler with an empty position.

The Explorers opened their season against their traditional rival, Loyola, with a starting lineup composed of Tom Gola, Freshman; Norm Grekin, Junior; Jack Moore, Soph; and Bud Donnelly and Newt Jones, the only two seniors on the squad. The Loefflermen breezed through the zone-minded Greyhounds, but not before they were given a first-half scare. Fred lehle was inserted at the start of the second half and he decided the game in the Explorers favor, an incident that was to take place often throughout the season. Frosh Tom Gola did not let the fans down as he matriculated his college career with a sterling all-around performance.

Everybody stops and takes notice as Fred lehle uncorks a jump shot against West Chester. The Rams, like many of the other Fieldhouse opponents, extended the Loefflermen before bowing 85-55.

Jack Moore shows his perfect form as he goes up in air for one of his famous jump shots. Fred lehle is ready to garner in possible rebound if Jack misses.

La Salle's first trip turned out to be fruitful as the Explorers beat a very good Niagara squad 85-74, with Tom Gola being acclaimed as one of the best players to be seen in Buffalo in many a day. The Niagara victory was followed by four more sterling victories over semi-top notch competition in Millersville, West Chester, Lafayette and Albright. These victories were sparked by the shooting of lehle and the all-around play of Norm Grekin, Tom Gola, Jack Moore, and Buddy Donnelly.

By this time Tom Gola and Jack Moore had established themselves as two of the most feared rebound men in the country. Also Fred lehle had capably taken over the offensive burden left by departing Jack George.

The Explorers were now ready to entrain on the rugged part of the schedule. In their first appearance on the local doubleheader at St. Joseph Fieldhouse, the Blue and Gold ran Delaware right through the boards as they upended the Mudhens 85-44. Three nights later, La Salle encountered their major test to that time in Western Kentucky and successfully kept their eight game winning streak intact as they played superbly and defeated the Hilltoppers 67-58.

Even the referee got excited on this one as nimble Norm Grekin finds a new way to swish the nets. Wacky O'Hara is ready if needed.

Tricky Norm Grekin fooled them on this one. He faked his favorite pivot shot and drove under to score for the Explorers. Two Lafayette defenders try in vain to block the shot.

First Loss

Disaster struck when the Explorers traveled to St. Louis, as the Billikens dealt La Salle its first loss of the season 62-46. The game was closer than the score indicates, and were it not for some erratic calls by the referees, the Explorers would have emerged with their ninth straight victory.

Coach Loeffler's proteges got back on the right path as La Salle swamped Temple 75-59, and highly-touted Eastern Kentucky 77-56, in games which featured the great play of Tom Gola and Norm Grekin. Gola was chosen the Philadelphia Sports-writers' Player of the Week Award for his sensational play against Eastern Kentucky. A 92-55 annihilation of Scranton marked the final contest of the season at the College Field House.

La Salle's "freshman whiz" Tom Gola lets go on one of his favorite shots as he soars high above the defenders to connect again. Fred Lehle and Bud Donnelly seem confident that their help will not be needed on this shot.

High scores prevailed as the Explorers continued to function in high gear as they dealt Muhlenberg a 95-77 shellacking and Loyola, in their second meeting of the year, 90-65.

The Explorers were dealt their second reversal of the year and by far the most humiliating as St. Joseph's upset the Loefflermen 54-53. This proved later on in the season to be the upset of the year.

Newt Jones leads the pack as he is the first one down court and succeeds in registering a double decker as the others reach him a little too late. Because of his great speed, Jones was a big help to the Blue and Gold Hoopsters.

Fred lehle adds another two points to his vast collection for the night as the Leopard's defenders fail to reach lehle in time to block the shot. Fred's great second half shooting was the deciding factor in this victory.

Frosh Jim Warrington illustrates Explorer scoring power in registering the 105th point in the Murray State game. Jack Moore runs to grab possible rebound as the Thoroughbreds are lassoed in scorethion 105-82. This was the highest total run up in La Salle's history.

Norm Grekin (7) gives Jack Moore (8) an assist in tapping in a rebound against Eastern Kentucky. Other players in the action are Newt Jones and the Maroons' Bob Mulchy and Bob Bechtold (32).

La Salle's first stringers get a breather while the reserve players take over in the second half of a game that is about won. Coach Ken Loeffler in background seems pleased.

Isn't He Terrific

Tom Gola resembles a B-29 in position for a take-off as he does one of his take-offs in the Western Kentucky tilt. Gola had the Hilltoppers talking to themselves because of the sensational play he exhibited against them.

Tom Gola lets stray pass go out of bounds while four Red and Blue cagers—three of them with horrified looks—watch it sail. The Penn players had reason to be horrified as the Explorers gave them a terrific trouncing 74-58.

Norm Grekin is just about ready to uncork another unbelievable shot as two Georgetown defenders stare in amazement. Even shots of this nature couldn't help the Loefflermen as they were upset by the Hoyas 70-68.

Finishing Fast

The bout is between La Salle's Norm Grekin and Manhattan's Junius Kellogg. Norm, with his Explorer teammates, collaborated to give La Salle a quick knockout over the Jaspers in a pre-tourney showing of La Salle in the Garden.

After the defeat at the hands of St. Joseph, La Salle's basketball players pulled themselves together momentarily and defeated another inter-city rival, Temple, for the second time of the season 65-50, but on the between semester vacation, entrained on a disastrous road trip. Playing Duquesne, Coach Loeffler decided to use a zone, and it backfired as the Dukes were having an on night and easily beat the Explorers 71-60. The next night, the Loefflermen, disgusted at the performance in the Duquesne game, just couldn't get started and consequently a great blow was dealt to the tourney hopes as Youngstown University upset them 68-57.

Playing for the third time in three nights, the Blue and Gold Hoopsters finally broke out of their lethargy, and soundly trounced Geneva by the astronomical score of 103-74. The courtmen continued to play superb offensive ball against Murray State, and for the second game in a row passed the century mark, winning 105-82.

The next game will not soon be forgotten, for it was one of the most publicized games in the city in a long time, the battle between Tom Gola and Penn's sensation, Ernie Beck. Before the game was three-quarters over Tom Gola had proved to every witness present and maybe even to Ernie Beck that there is no equal to Gola.

With a tourney berth not far out of their reach, the Explorers played St. Joseph in the second game of their series. The Explorers more than made up for their previous defeat by soundly trouncing the fabulous Hawks 68-50. Tom Gola was given the Player of the Week Award for the second time this season for his all-around play against Penn and St. Joe.

Georgetown, a hot and cold team all season, just about dumped any hopes that La Salle might have had about going to any post-season tournament when they upset the Explorers 70-68 in a sloppily played game. Even after this defeat, La Salle was mentioned by the N.I.T. committee as a possible participant if they beat Manhattan and Muhlenberg in their two remaining encounters.

This must have set a spark off in the Explorers, for when they took the floor at Madison Square Garden against Manhattan, they already had been invited and it seemed like a thank you to the committee, for they played like true champions that night and handily defeated the Jaspers 77-55. In their remaining game against Muhlenberg, the hoopsters continued their inspirational play and trounced Muhlenberg 92-77.

With the regular season ended, the Explorers began practicing for the N.I.T., and something new could be seen in the Loefflermen; what it was no one knows, but they encountered Seton Hall in the first game and:

Third Straight City Title

Bob Geasy, promoter of Convention Hall Doubleheader Programs, presents the City Title Trophy to Coach Ken Loeffler. Seniors Budd Donnelly and Newt Jones smilingly look on.

Fred lehle, as hot as a blast furnace against Seton Hall, sneaks by a Pirate defender to drop one of his—shall we say numerous?—field goals. Fred, together with Tom Gola, accounted for a mere 55 of the total 80 markers registered against the South Orange aggregation.

Exhibiting his tremendous spring, Tom Gola jars the ball lose from Seton Hall's 6'11" star, Wally Dukes. Richie Reagan (18) and Jim Ahern (6) look on while Norm Grekin, obscured by Dukes, lends his assistance in his own peculiar way.

The mighty Explorers, beginning in the tourney as decided underdogs, performed magnificently in the first game. The combined efforts of La Salle and Seton Hall, with both teams at their best, made for an extraordinarily well-played contest with the Blue and Gold finishing on top, 80-76.

Before the game, Ken Loeffler, the sage of La Salle, kept saying, "If we get Dukes out, we'll give them a real battle." He was so right.

It was up to La Salle's tall trio, Tom Gola, Norm Grekin, and Jack Moore to handle 6'11" Walter, with the ultimate intention of getting him to watch the game from the bench. Gola drew most of the fouls, and Grekin and Moore, together with the frosh sensation, took care of the rebounds.

Offensively, Gola and Fred lehle gave a sensational two-man show as their 30 and 25 points respectively amazed the fans. lehle really put the damper on the Pirates with seven straight goals in the second half. With this victory tucked away, an air of extreme confidence was felt among the Explorers. Now they knew they had it and St. John's was next.

Fred lehle tallies insurance goal with 25 seconds left against Seton Hall in the first round of the N.I.T. lehle's goal gave the Explorers a 80-74 lead. The Pirates came back with a two pointer before the end.

Ticket Sale Boom

Tom Gola bulls his way around St. John's right flank for a twin pointer in the Explorers' 71-62 victory over the favored Redmen.

Against St. John's, the Explorers could not reach the pitch that they exhibited against Seton Hall, but still had plenty in the clutch and won out, 51-45, over the New York darlings. In all truth, the Redmen were also suffering from an off night, but La Salle still had a definite overall edge.

Norm Grekin, Jack Moore, Fred Lehle, and Buddy Donnelly were superb despite anemic shooting averages. Tom Gola's shots were always close but not close enough, which proves that even he misses once in a while. Tom was nevertheless sensational, giving an excellent defensive job on Bob Zawoluk.

In this game, Grekin had a real workout at the foul line, setting a tournament record of thirteen converted free throws. Jack Moore was little short of sensational off the boards, and also garnered important points at the right time. Buddy Donnelly did a great job, as always, of commanding La Salle's floor game. All-in-all, it was a tremendous team victory.

Following this win, even the critics conceded that La Salle might go all the way, something the Blue and Gold fans were convinced of by now.

Fred Lehle misses drop kick as Tom Gola and Norm Grekin battle St. John's Ronnie McGilvary and Jack McMahon for possession as Zeke Zawoluk watches the action.

Teammates Jack Moore and Norm Grekin fight St. John's Jim Davies for possession of the ball under the Explorer basket but to no avail as the ball is batted out of bounds. Although having an off night in their shooting, the Blue and Gold had enough to come out victorious, 51-45.

Norm Grekin tried to block this shot by the Dukes' Dick Ricketts but some of the evil teammates of Ricketts threw the old football block on Grekin. Norm more than made up for this as he went on to do a tremendous rebounding job against the vaunted Dukes. The victory by the Explorers avenged an early season defeat.

Sweet Revenge

In the semi-finals, the Loefflermen were pitted against a tall Duquesne outfit, a team by which they had been previously trounced, 71-60, during regular season play. Also, the Dukes were the tourney's top-seeded five, and were given the go-ahead to extinguish the Explorer fire and take top honors.

But instead, in one of the easiest thumpings ever administered in tourney play, the Dukes were humiliated 59-46 before an over capacity Garden crowd.

The Explorers wasted little time, taking the lead at the outset and increasing it as the game progressed. In viewing this game, the starting five must be cited together as outstanding. The rebounding of Moore and Gola was terrific and the shooting of Lehle and Grekin torrid, while the ball-handling of Captain Buddy Donnelly completely captivated the Garden fans. The final score shows the great defensive game played by the La Salle hoopsters, who held the Dukes' "Gold Dust Twins," Jim Tucker and Dick Ricketts, to a combined total of eighteen points.

Now there was little question as to which was the best team in the world. Only Dayton stood as an obstacle of proving the contrary.

Before

BEFORE. Anxiety is portrayed on the grim faces of these La Salle fans as a journey game approaches a crucial stage. Frowns, pensive glances, fingernail biting, and open-mouth astonishment are all-prevailing.

After

AND AFTER. Tension is relieved as the Blue and Gold tellies again, and the Explorer followers discover yelling as a suitable outlet for their emotions. Dapper Skeeter Brooks, seated between rabble-rousing Jim McHugh and Chas. O'Connor, seems to give the impression that "my money is safe now, we're in."

Congratulations Champs

You're The Best In The World

Prior to the final game, everyone but Dayton was convinced that the Explorers had too much class to be denied. With everyone behind them, the Loefflermen exhibited a basketball classic, the likes of which is rarely seen, and as if to thank New York for the extended invitation, they proceeded with consummate ease to display their greatness.

The Blue and Gold led at times by as much as fifteen points and the only question remaining was how great would be the final margin of victory. Toward the game's end, the starting five departed amid deserving ear-shattering accolades, and the reserves entered to finish the contest in commendable fashion.

La Salle's victories were team victories. This can be seen by the fact that three of the Explorers were named on the all N.I.T. first team and one on the second. Also the Most Valuable Player Trophy was shared for the first time. From the La Salle standpoint, five such trophies should have been awarded.

As a prize for winning the N.I.T., the Explorers were invited to play in the Olympic Tryouts. In the semi-finals the Blue and Gold were pitted against St. John's, the runnerup of the N.C.A.A. Tourney. The Explorers easily defeated the Redmen in the Olympic semi-finals 71-62, and were opposed by Kansas in the finals. The Midwesterners had Clyde Lovelette and he was simply too much for the Explorers that night as he scored 40 points. The final score was 70-65, but the Blue and Gold even in defeat proved to everyone in New York that La Salle has the best team in the world.

As a former alumnus put it, "I think you not only have the greatest team, but the greatest College in the country."

"This is fun," Buddy Donnelly tells himself as he drives past Dayton's Jim Norris for a twin pointer. This was only one of the many times that Bud accomplished the feat against the Flyers. At the whistle Donnelly had 11 points. He also had the highest number of assists with six. "Nice going, Bud."

One sharer of the Most Valuable Trophy passes to his co-winner in a scoring maneuver that turned out to be successful for the Explorers. Tom Gola adds an assist to his night's scoring total of 22 points with a nifty pass to Norm Grekin, who scooted around the defender to drop one in for La Salle. Harry Paxton and Charlie Grigsby of Dayton stood no chance of holding down these two.

Thanks For A Job Well Done

This picture speaks for itself. The Explorers' victory was heralded throughout the nation as one of the greatest spectacles in the history of tourney play. We can only add as so many have already: "CONGRATULATIONS, CHAMPS."

Well Earned Reward

Tom Gola and Norm Grekin are overjoyed after being presented with the Most Valuable Player Trophy of the N.I.T. Gola and Grekin were co-winners of the award, which marked the first time in N.I.T. history that the honor was given to two men. Coach Ken Loeffler, with N.I.T. Trophy, looks happily on.

Bud Donnelly

Newt Jones

There is no question as to the value of the two graduating seniors, Captain Buddy Donnelly and fleet footed Newt Jones. These two gentlemen, who for the last three years have served La Salle nobly and well in her basketball endeavors are certainly deserving of praise and recognition. Bud and Newt will be graduating in June but many more basketball seasons will pass before the deeds of these seniors have slipped completely from memory.

Justice prevailed as these two have participated in the N.I.T. in each of their three seasons of varsity ball. It seems to be something of a reward for them.

It would take a volume to express on paper what we think of Buddy Donnelly. But then, we do not have to write a word about him. His actions on the hardwood speak for themselves, and it is doubtful if the Explorers could have attained such heights without his efforts. His dazzling dribbling, which he so talently exhibited in the N.I.T., and his playmaking were supreme. One of the most outstanding and underrated backcourt men in the country, his deftness in passing and defense is equalled only by his inspirational leadership and keen competitive spirit. We wish Bud continued success in his life-long endeavors.

To Newt Jones can be given a large degree of credit for the speed which La Salle teams have possessed in recent years. Newt is probably as fast as any ballplayer in college ranks, and the middle name of "hustle" could easily be applied to him. While at La Salle he has shown that he does not know the meaning of "quit." To him, the game is over only when the final buzzer sounds. It is next to impossible to prevent him from driving hoopward as he hurtles through space.

In addition to his hustle, Newt is a fine backcourt man, excelling in passing and defense, and is also a top performer in the clutch. With such determination and will to win, Newt cannot help but succeed.

1951-52 EXPLORER VARSITY SWIMMING TEAM

Seated: Joe Summers, Bob Lennox, Chick McLaughlin, Joe McKenna, Co-Captains Jack Ricks and Bob Fitzgerald, Bob Hafey, Jim Pickford and Chuck Mohacey.

Despite the loss of Pat Kennedy, an Olympic hopeful, to the Marines, before the season got underway, the Blue and Gold Swimmers ended the 1951-52 swim season as one of the most successful in the history of the sport at La Salle College.

Starting out rather shakily and consequently losing their first two meets, the natators took hold of themselves and splashed past the next six rivals in grand fashion but came up against the best in the country in the last meets and were beaten, but not before they gave two national powerhouses, North Carolina and Yale, a run for their money.

With a dominantly green squad, Joe Kirk's proteges began with successive losses to Delaware 43-41, and a star-studded squad at Bainbridge Naval Training Center 50-35. After the two losses, the Explorers showed an amazing exhibition of power, downing the University of Pennsylvania by the one-sided score of 62-22. The Kirkmen took a total of nine first places in this meet, with Bob Fitzgerald participating in two of them.

The first home meet, held at the Germantown Y.M.C.A., found the Explorers coming out on top for the second straight time, with Loyola of Baltimore the victim by the same lopsided score that had beaten Penn, 62-22. The meet was highlighted by the diving performances of Bob Lennox and Bob Hafey.

Lafayette was next to feel the claws of our upsurging natators as they were dealt a 60-24 shellacking. Frank Griffin set a pool record in this meet in the backstroke with a time of 2.26.7.

Temple became the fourth straight victim of the prolific Explorers as they were dunked by the ever-improving Kirkmen, and again by the fantastic score of 67-17.

Coach Joe Kirk then used his substitute mermen in most of the events against West Chester, and they came through in impressive style to whip the Teachers 59-24.

With Jim Pickford establishing a new pool record for the backstroke, formerly held by his teammate, Frank Griffin, the Explorers made it six in a row as they swam past Franklin and Marshall 51-32.

The Explorers' win-streak was abruptly ended at six by a veteran North Carolina squad by a 53-31 count. The Southerners had too many guns for the Explorer tankmen that night and only Bruce DeForrest and Bob Fitzgerald could make any headway against the Tarheels.

Still burning from the defeat at the hands of North Carolina, the Blue and Gold took their annual trip to New Haven to oppose Yale, perennially the best in the country, and almost came through with one of the greatest upsets in modern swim history, but the Bulldogs with their great reserve strength had enough to pull it out of the fire and finally won 49-35.

Captain Bob Fitzgerald seems to be extending his arms in a V for Victory motion as he comes home a victor in the breaststroke event. Bob set a good example for his teammates as he finished first in at least one event every meet. For his great accomplishments in the water, Fitzgerald has been a member of the All-American Swim Team for the past three years.

JIM PICKFORD, a backstroke, was the smile (understatement of the year) of the club. Whenever pressure appeared, everyone looked to Jim, and his antics relieved the tension. "Jungle Jim" hit his peak against Franklin and Marshall when he came through in never-to-be-forgotten fashion to catch and nip teammate Frank Griffin in the last 50 yards in record time.

FRANK GRIFFIN, a big, classy performer never stopped coming through in the backstroke event. Griff set two marks during the campaign in the 200-yard backstroke, one against Temple and the other at home against Lafayette.

BOB HAFEY, a top diver who performed well all season and improved with each meet. He picked up the slack when Bob Lennox left and hit his stride with first places against Franklin and Marshall and Lafayette.

Jim Pickford, the Explorers' ace backstroke, churning through the water toward another victory in his specialty. Jim was one of the most consistent members on the team this past year and was one of the main reasons why the swim season was so successful.

This being the last meet of the year, Joe Kirk lost five members of his successful swim team. The seniors were Bob Fitzgerald, Jack Ricks, Jim Pickford, Frank Griffin and Bob Hafey.

BOB FITZGERALD, co-captain of the '52 squad, has been a constant example of condition and ability and a reflection of good coaching. Bob hit his peak as early as the Delaware meet when he set a pool record and he went on to register at least one first place in every meet thereafter in either the 150-yard individual medley or the 200-yard breaststroke.

JACK RICKS, co-captain of the '52 squad, and, as such, this freestyler had the job of helping steady the younger and greener members of the squad. Jack also came through when needed with valuable points in the 220-yard and 440-yard freestyle events and was a great of the heart of the team along with Fitzgerald.

Bruce DeForrest seems confident, and has reason to be, as he scores another impressive victory. This time Temple is the victim. Bruce was one of the reasons the Explorers came very close in gaining a history-making upset over Yale.

Here we find Coach Joe Kirk discussing the team's possibilities with his Co-Captains, Jack Ricks (center) and Bob Fitzgerald (right), and by expressions on their faces we say that an air of confidence existed.

Diver Bob Hafey, one of Joe Kirk's mainstays for the past three years, gets ready to execute another fancy dive. Bob thrilled the crowd in meet after meet with his breath-taking fancy dives.

The Explorers' 220-yard medley relay team, composed of seniors Jim Pickford and Bob Fitzgerald and freshman Joe Summers get ready to take to the water. This group was one of the main point producers for the mermen all season.

The more the merrier as Fred Geiter, Joe Merkins, George Dukes, Charlie Harmon and Bob Smith take a commanding lead in their dual meet match against West Chester.

Fred Geiter sets the pace and the other Explorers follow his good example as he comes up the hill for the last time just a few seconds before he crosses the finish line. Other La Salle men are Earl Eldridge, George Dukes, Fuzz Harmon and Bob Smith.

Just one more step, seems to be the expression on the faces of Charlie Harmon, Joe Merkins and Earl Eldridge as they finish in a sensational three-way tie for first place against Penn.

Cross Country

"They're off," as La Salle and St. Joe's get on their way on the La Salle course.

La Salle's big three are well ahead of their nearest opponents as they seem to be taking it easy. Earl Eldridge, Joe Merkins and Charlie Harmon were Frank Wetzler's big point getters all season.

La Salle's Cross-Country team, dominated by underclassmen, enjoyed one of the most successful seasons since the sport was inaugurated at the school. They lost but one dual meet, while winning five, and showed to excellent advantage in the IC4A and Middle Atlantic Cross-Country Championships.

The team, which was composed of only one senior, Jack McKay, showed improvement with every meet and with such outstanding freshmen as Joe Merkins and Earl Eldridge, Coach Frank Wetzler's Cross-Country fortunes should considerably improve within the next few years.

The Explorers opened their season by traveling to New York to take on Manhattan and St. John's in a triangular meet on the rough Dexter Park Course and weren't given a homely welcome as the Big City boys ended up one-two ahead of the Explorers. The Blue and Gold cindermen got on their winning stride in their home opener as they defeated Temple 23-34.

This victory was followed by a defeat at the hands of St. Joe's by a 23-33 count. The Hawks were by far the best team in the Middle Atlantic Conference, so such a narrow defeat wasn't considered too damaging.

The Explorers really got hold of themselves after this defeat and went on to defeat Lafayette 18-41, West Chester 15-50, Pennsylvania 20-35, and power-packed Georgetown 23-36.

The regular season ended after the Georgetown meet and the cindermen began preparing for the Middle Atlantic Championships with the intention of ousting St. Joe. The meet was run at Muhlenberg and the Explorers came within an eyelash of winning but were nipped by the Hawks at the finish.

Since the season was highly successful, individual standouts proved to be many; Earl Eldridge, the frosh whiz, proved by far to be the best individual performer for the cindermen. Behind him, the Explorers had Joe Merkins, another frosh who shows great promise. The others who made this season such a success were Charlie (Fuzz) Harmon, Fred Geiter, Capt. George Dukes, Jack McKay, Harry Agnew, Don Sharpe, Fred Dransfield and Bob Smith.

"Wait for me, Earl." Charlie Harmon seems to be saying as Eldridge and a St. Joe man run neck and neck on the Wister Park Course. The Hawks went on to win the meet.

Capt. George Dukes clings to his lead as St. Joe's John Cunningham fights desperately to overtake him in a dual meet against the Hawks.

Start nothing; that is a finish. Believe it or not, this is the finish of the La Salle-West Chester Meet in which the Explorers had things pretty much their own way and waited for one another at the finish line before crossing.

Soccer

"That's using your head, Jake," his teammates seem to be telling him, as Jake Rakszowski gives his teammate, Ed Siecka, a head pass during the Temple tilt.

The Explorers' Jack McKay brings ball down for La Salle in an attempt to get it in position for a possible score as two Temple men have other ideas about where the ball is headed.

Lafayette's goalie breaks up one of the Explorers' scoring plays as La Salle's Ed Verdeur, Rudy Tippenhauer and Jack McKay look on in amazement.

In retrospect, the Explorer booters, under mentor Joe Smith and co-captains Herb Schweitzer and Ed Verdeur, failed to come up to pre-season expectations. Sporting an array of returning senior lettermen, the 20th and Olney kickers entered into a rugged, and in many cases, muddy season since more than half of the games played were on soggy fields. Included in the schedule were West Chester and Temple, bright stars in the soccer galaxy.

The initial game at La Salle's home field was the stage for the Explorers' first defeat. West Chester, second best in the East, manifested their superstatus as a soccer potent by overpowering the home team 3-0.

Traveling to Muhlenberg, La Salle was not affected by a strange field, and showed their superiority, presenting the Mules with a 3-1 defeat, and marking a successful attempt in their first road trip.

The itinerant kickers were guests of Pennsylvania, playing at the university's River Field. In a game played in the rain and on a soggy field, Penn punched in four quick goals in the first period to clinch the contest. Throughout the game, La Salle never threatened. Final score, 6-0.

Returning home, we played host to Drexel. However, we were too mannerly, showing a poor offense, with many plays not working, while Drexel exhibited a strong defense, thwarting our efforts to score, and goaling two in their 2-0 triumph.

Joe Smith's charges journeyed to Temple Stadium, but the game was postponed due to inclement weather and poor playing conditions. In the later meeting, Temple, National Collegiate Soccer Champions, defeated La Salle 4-0 in a very rough game that resulted in many injuries for both sides.

Continuing their rambles, the Olneyites played away at Western Maryland. Although La Salle constantly threatened, Western Maryland put up a strong defense, and managed to score the only goal of the game, winning by this margin.

In a return to the green pastures of their home field, La Salle lost a 1-0 heartbreaker to Lafayette when the goalie and fullback crossed signals, and an opponent wingman footed the decisive score into the net.

The final encounter was played away, at Delaware, under the worst conditions (a driving rain, and water-immersed field). Delaware, in a first period blitzkrieg, booted in three goals and scored two more later in the game for a 5-0 victory.

One of the brighter aspects bestowed upon the soccer men was the receiving of major letters. Prior to this year all soccer letters were minor letters. Also deserving mention are the departing seniors who expended their efforts in a very trying season. These were: co-captains Herb Schweitzer and Ed Verdeur, Jack McKay, Sam McKay, Joe Schmidt, and Joe Woods. Smooth kicking, fellas!

This picture shows the graduating seniors. Their loss will be greatly felt next season since they compose the nucleus of the team. They are, left to right: Ed Verdeur, Herb Schweitzer, John McCann, Jack McKay, Joe Woods, and Sam McKay.

Last minute instructions are being given by Coach Joe Smith to two of his starters, Jack McKay and Ed Cieka, just before action is about to commence prior to the Drexel game. The instructions turned out to be futile as Drexel defeated the Explorers 2-0.

"Ball, ball, where's the ball?" Herb Schweitzer and Jake Rakowski seem to be saying as the ball bounds off of Jake's head in the La Salle-Drexel tilt.

1952 LA SALLE COLLEGE VARSITY BASEBALL TEAM

Winners of last year's Middle Atlantic Conference Tourney Championship, the La Salle baseball team enters this season very optimistically. There would be considerably more optimism, but the loss of Jack George to the Army has dampened this somewhat. Also, via the graduation route, Coach Bill Haeffner lost such capable performers as Captain Moe Rudden, Jack Molnar, Moe Morehead and Frank Grannahan.

Early season performances by the baseballers haven't been what was expected, mainly because of the lack of hitting that was anticipated this season, but Coach Haeffner has been using different combinations in order to find his best team and we are confident that he will find it and do as good or even better than last year's fine record of 13-5.

This year, Coach Haeffner is in the process of a rebuilding job, so that he can give La Salle as good a season as last year. So far this season the Explorers have dropped decisions to Pennsylvania, St. John's and Lafayette, while being victorious over Temple, 10-5, in a free scoring game.

The Explorers will start with an infield composed of Paul Curcio at the initial sack, Junior Tom Sottile at the keystone, Frosh Gene O'Donnell at shortstop and Senior Joe Torrence at the hot corner. The Coach Bill Haeffner and Captain Frank Murdock seem pleased with what they see as they discuss the team's chances before the St. Joe game. Frank is one of Coach Haeffner's mainstays from last season's M.A.C. Champs.

This picture shows the Explorers' mound ace, Jim Covello, warming up before one of La Salle's big games. Jim was one of the main reasons why the Haeffnermen went on to become co-champs of the M.A.C. last season. Besides his mound chores, Covello is a pretty fair country hitter, batting an astronomical .442 last season.

outfield will be composed of Captain Frank Murdock in left, Joe Gallegher, a .400 hitter last season, in center, and Senior Carl Kolanko in right. The backstop position will be held down by Bernie Stutski.

Probably the nucleus of the Explorer nine is in its pitching. The Blue and Gold has its entire squad back from last year and in the early season games have shown to great advantage. The staff is headed by Jim Covello, a seven game winner last year. He also defeated Lehigh in the opener of the M.A.C. tourney. Coach Haeffner is looking to Covello to take home a majority of the Explorer victories.

Behind Covello are Herb McLaughlin, another one of the Explorers' mainstays. A starter for the past two seasons, Herb has pitched some fine ball for the Explorers and great things are expected from him this season.

The other starter is expected to be Joe Gallegher, another veteran of last year, who helped immensely in the Explorers' quest to the M.A.C. title. The rest of the mound crew are underclassmen. Such men as Bill De Pace, Lou Griffin, Bill Drake and Jim Lucia will be looked for to come through with relief roles when called upon.

Before us we have the graduating seniors, a loss which will be greatly felt by the Explorer nine next year. They are: pitcher Herb McLaughlin, first baseman Paul Curcio, third baseman Joe Torrence, left fielder Frank Murdock, right fielder Carl Kolanko, pitcher Jim Covello and pitcher Joe Gallegher.

These three are looked to this season to carry the brunt of the scoring attack for the Explorer nine. They are Paul Curcio, Joe Gallegher, and Joe Torrence.

If pitching is seventy-five per cent of a team, La Salle has a sturdy seventy-five per cent, for Coach Bill Haeffner is depending upon his mound crop to bring home a good many victories this season for the Explorers. They are, I. to r.: Jim Covello, Bill Drake, Tom Lucia, Lou Giffin, Herb McLaughlin, Joe Gallegher, and Bill DePace.

Coach Wetzler, standing in front of his mile relay team, tells each man his time in completing each individual part of the mile. The boys, John Manning, Fred Geiter, Joe Walker and Joe Fricker, seem pleased with the results.

This year's Explorer Track Team will have more power and reserve strength than any other Explorer squad that has stamped the cinders for the Blue and Gold.

Their early season times have been unbelievably fast—the mile relay team is no doubt one of the best in the East, and for the first time in many years the Explorers will have men who can garner points for them in the field events.

Besides this, such outstanding individual performers as Joe Walker and Jim Webb should add more glory to the Wetzlermen. Both are Olympic aspirants and if they can keep up the work that they have shown in their early season performances, they are sure to become representatives of the U. S. come this summer.

The Explorers, this year, will face the fastest and best competition in the country. They are entered in the Seton Hall Relays, the Penn Relays and the Middle Atlantic Conference Championships at the end of the season. Of these, the Explorers would like most to take home first honors in the Middle Atlantic Championship.

These two speed demons are two of last year's big point getters and will again be counted on to give the cindermen one of the best track teams in the East. The whizzers are Joe Morrison, whose specialty is the 100 and 220, and Joe Fricker, who does his best in the 440 and 880. They are both members of the mile relay team.

Joe Walker jogs around the track after completing another one of his famous quarter miles. Joe, who endangers records every time he runs, is counted upon heavily to make this season the best in school history.

Two of Coach Frank Wetzler's hurdlers take their practice jumps over the low hurdles as they are in the process of trying to better their times before the season gets under way. The two hurdlers are Tom Patterson and Tom Gallegher.

Showing the form that won him the I.C.4A. title, Jim Webb goes over the bar in another perfect high jump. Jim was elected Captain this year by his teammates because of his qualities of leadership and courage.

Anchor man Joe Fricker comes home in first place to win for La Salle the Middle Atlantic Mile Relay Crown, which it has defended for the past two seasons. The runners were handicapped in their time by mud and driving rain. Other members of the crack relay team are Fred Geiter, Charlie Peoples, and Joe Walker.

Bill Gaynor displays his perfect form as he puts the shot in the meet against St. John's. -This toss garnered second place for Bill and contributed to La Salle's victory margin over the powerful Redmen.

Explorer sprint man Joe Morrison grimaces as he lunges at the tape to win the 100 yard dash in La Salle's impressive conquest of St. John's. Morrison, running against the wind, won in 10.4 to beat out teammate "Turk Maben".

The La Salle College Varsity Eight takes time out for a picture as they are in the process of practicing for the Southern Florida Meet. The practice session paid off since the Explorers went on to establish a new mark on the Florida waters.

Coach Tom Curran, along with Captain Dick O'Brien, stand on the dock and discuss the coming meet. Their strategy must have been sound because the Explorers ended the meet with a record breaking victory.

Starting the season in grand fashion, the La Salle College Varsity Crew is destined this year to better its terrific performance of a season ago. Last season the Explorers were crowned champions of small college crews by virtue of winning the Dad Vail Regatta.

So far this season, the Explorers have shown tremendous power in defeating American International, Southern Florida, by a record breaking performance, and a terrific upset over highly favored Dartmouth. The victory over Dartmouth has definitely established the Blue and Gold crew as one of the strongest in the East.

The success of this year's Explorer crew squad is due to the fine work of its new coach, Tom Curran. Under his tutelage, the crew has improved with each of its pre-season practice sessions and with three victories in four starts, great things can be expected before the season comes to a conclusion.

The crew, l. to r., bow, George Hines, Henry Backe, John Brady, Dick O'Brien, Bill Keiser, Tom Conville, Tom McKenney, Tom Doulis (stroke) and coxswain John Seitz, were nosed out in the last couple of yards of the meet.

The La Salle Varsity Eight (left) takes a commanding lead over Dartmouth. The Explorers went on to beat the Indians for their third victory of the season.

The loss of this year's graduating seniors will be greatly felt next year. The seniors, Capt. Richard O'Brien, William Keiser, Henry Backe and George Hines, can be given much of the credit for the wonderful success that the crew has achieved in the last few years. All were members of last year's DAD VAIL REGATTA CHAMPS.

MIDDLE ATLANTIC CHAMPIONS

DAD VAIL ROWING CHAMPIONS

Senior History

It was a heterogeneous group of hopeful students who matriculated to the La Salle campus nearly four years ago on September 20, 1948, seeking the goals of a liberal and Catholic education.

Ted Harris was elected president of the National Student Association and Joe Verdeur attained the highest accolade possible in the sports world with an Olympic victory in the 200-meter breaststroke.

The enrollment, boosted by the five hundred and twenty members of our incoming class, eclipsed the two thousand mark for the first and only time in the school's history.

The school's facilities and activities increased in proportion to the enrollment. Benilde Hall with its nine additional classrooms and six offices was dedicated a week before our arrival. Also on the construction side, over forty thousand dollars was spent on maintenance and repair that summer.

The changing of the Collegian from a bi-weekly to a weekly publication, the shifting of the Harvest Dance off campus to the more accommodating Broadwood Hotel and the entry of twenty-five teams in the intramural football league were major extra-curricular results of the record-breaking student body.

Sports, politics, and the arts occupied our initial interest in school affairs during those first indoctrinating months. Verdeur became the toast of the school when the entire student body gathered in McCarthy Stadium in a gala "Welcome Home" celebration. Joe proved his mettle to us early, smashing thirty records that year including his own world record in the breaststroke.

Brother G. Thomas, Dean of Freshmen, delivers the speech of welcome at the outset of our first year. Also on stage are Father Gorman, College Chaplain; Brother G. Paul, President, and Brother E. Stanislaus, Dean.

Joe Verdeur is greeted at the Philadelphia Airport greeted by his mother and by Mayor Bernard Samuel after his arrival from London where he won the 200-meter Olympic breaststroke championship.

Bill Metzler was elected to the first of his four terms as president prior to the Thanksgiving recess. The other offices were filled by Compton Harris, vice-president; Thomas Dolan, secretary; and Edmund Altieri, treasurer.

During the vacation period, the hoopsters of Charley McGlone went on their merry way and ran their undefeated skein to seven before San Francisco, eventual N.I.T. champs, stopped the Explorers.

After upsetting N.C.A.A. champion Holy Cross, a large pep rally was held in the auditorium on the eve of the Temple game but to no avail as the Broad Streeters pulled off the biggest local upset of the season to the tune of 54-36. The Owls won out with the aid of a "modified zone," a nemesis which cropped up several times before the court season was over.

La Salle's sports rating failed to drop, however, as Joe Verdeur successfully defended his A.A.U. title and was voted "Swimmer of the Year" and Larry Foust became the first Philadelphia player to pass the 1,000 point mark.

Honorable John J. Sullivan received the Signum Fidei Medal from the alumni and Ed Sullivan was chosen for the Collegian's first Public Service in Journalism award.

The Blue and Gold with Buddy Williams acting as maestro was a big success with over one thousand in attendance at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel. After the Blue and Gold, we forgot about extra-curricular activities, temporarily at least, to prepare for our first fling with final examinations.

We went to the Cincinnati Tourney only to be beaten by Cincinnati U., 50-49 in the opening round. A consolation victory over William and Mary boosted the final season log to 21-7.

As the basketball season ended, the spring sports came to the fore. Two new eight-oared shells, the G. Paul and Emilian J., were christened to inaugurate the crew season while the baseball team scored a 4-1 victory over Loyola to open a seventeen game schedule.

The Purchase Card System, another function of the N.S.A., was inaugurated. Over thirty local merchants cooperated by offering discounts ranging from five to thirty per cent to the student members.

The first local meeting of the National Federation of Catholic College Students was held at St. Joseph's College. Brother G. Paul delivered the main address to the three hundred student delegates.

Ken Loeffler, fresh from the professional Providence Steamrollers and boasting twenty-five years' experience in basketball, was given a three year contract as basketball coach to succeed Charley McGlone who had succeeded in putting La Salle on the basketball map.

Frank Duffy was judged the best debater in the Benjamin Franklin Tournament held the same month.

The Theatre combined with the Glee Club to present "H.M.S. Pinafore" to close out an active program for both groups. The Evening Division, now boasting five hundred students, voted almost unanimously in favor of a representative Student Congress.

Brother Paul and Brother Joseph look at the architect's drawing of the new library while Phil Knutzen watches from the power shovel prior to beginning the excavation work.

Members of the Freshman Formal Committee listen to Bill Metzler, dance chairman, explain plans for our first social function.

Our first year was nearing its end and the frosh formal held at the Cedarbrook Country Club summed up the experiences which were ours and proved to be the most fitting climax to our introduction to college life and La Salle.

The Podium Society again led off the activities in our second year with a Gaité Parisienne dance.

Mr. Donald Masser was appointed plant engineer and plans were announced for the rebuilding of the baseball diamond and the erection of baseball stands. All of these were accomplished before the year was over.

Rain ruined the first soccer match in the school's history scheduled with Muhlenberg. West Chester drew the honors a week later and tripped the charges of Frank Wiechec by a 6-0 score. Meanwhile the cross-country team was losing its first three meets.

November and its accompanying Harvest Dance seemed to come fast that year. Clarence Fuhrman and his Orchestra provided the musical strains for the dance which honored Brother E. Felix who retired from teaching the year previous. Brother Felix was always willing to lend a helping art brush for any extra-curricular activity.

The Theatre made its bow with the world premiere of "Ambition Should Be Made."

The Glee Club was reorganized and Father William J. Sailer named as director. The appointment bore fruit quickly as the Glee Club became firmly established after experiencing several ups-and-downs in the previous years of its establishment.

The soccer men closed their first year with a record of three wins, four losses and a tie and high hopes of seeing soccer take on greater importance in succeeding years.

The first week of December that year was one long to be remembered. The choir of Xavier University entertained the student body with an hour-long recital. The following night, we traveled to the Ashbourne Country Club where we met one hundred and fifty of our classmates on hand for the Soph Cotillion and the music of Bob Fredericks.

Ken Loeffler was the only "new face" as La Salle took the measure of the alumni in the hoop opener. The game was followed by a dance sponsored by the Varsity Club.

The soph class began a move for greater student attendance at morning Mass and asked other classes and clubs to follow through. The idea caught on and soon the chapel was filled every morning.

The Glee Club opened its first Christmas tour with a concert for the student body and the Gavel participated in fourteen debates in one week at the University of Pittsburgh Tournament.

The post-Christmas games again saw the end of the basketball winning streak. UCLA pulled off a 62-57 upset and San Francisco duplicated the feat of a year before three nights later. The pre-season basketball illusions were ready to burst wide open at this point but the squad rallied to defeat Temple, Western Kentucky and Bowling Green before a week of the new year had passed.

Mr. William Brophy, the caretaker who supplied us with so much Irish humor, passed away during the holidays. The gay quips for which he became a tradition on campus were sorely missed during our remaining days.

The swimmers, loaded with potential greatness, got off quickly with impressive victories over Penn and Virginia. Joe Verdeur, now in his last year, was again the kingpin. Joe was again unanimous choice for swimmer of the year and placed second in the balloting for the Sullivan Cup, one notch better than the previous year.

It was Blue and Gold time again. Howard Lanin and his Orchestra played to the record-breaking crowd.

Another cause for joy was the passing of the vet bonus bill. Over 1500 students flooded the bookstore to receive applications and have them notarized.

The basketballers soared to their greatest heights as they walloped North Carolina State in the latter's own backyard by a fifteen point margin—an unprecedented feat. The Explorers then copped the city title by scoring their second victories over Temple and St. Joe's.

Toledo halted an impressive winning streak but an N.I.T. bid was early in coming. We were the fourth team picked.

Mr. John Hall Pacton of the State Department recounted his experiences with the Communists to the I.R.C.

A student council recommendation to set up a St. La Salle Auxiliary for deceased relatives of students was adopted. The Glee Club quartet made its debut at the Intercollegiate Quartette Tournament.

The Theatre presented "The Tidings Brought to Mary" as its Lenten selection and followed with a one-act play, "The Lost Silk Hat," in Chestnut Hill's one-act play competition.

We scored our first victory in the N.I.T. defeating Arizona, 72-66 and entered the quarter-finals against Duquesne only to lose a heartbreaker, 49-47, after leading all the way.

Bishop J. Carrol McCormick presided over ceremonies commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the canonization of St. John Baptist de La Salle. Bishop McCormick also presided over groundbreaking ceremonies for the new library which were held on the same day.

The track team, after early losses to powerful Georgetown and Lincoln, upset the dope by taking the Mid-Atlantic crown. The cindermen finished on top of co-favored St. Joe's and Lafayette. Jim Webb was a double winner in the championship meet.

The victory was the highlight of the sports year, being the first team championship ever won by a La Salle athletic squad.

With just one month to go in the year, we held Junior Week. The seven days of social activity culminated with the Junior Prom and the most successful Junior Week since its return to campus after the war.

A Booster Day raised funds for a Junior Week Flag which was raised immediately following the Mass on Sunday. Monsignor John E. Boyle opened the week with an address on the missions at the Communion breakfast.

An informal dance was held that same evening. Joan McCafferty was selected as Queen of Junior Week and coronation ceremonies were held at the Junior Prom.

During the week, a stag, Barn Dance and Baby Diaper Contest were held with particular success. Junior Week failed to close out the year, however, as the Glee Club presented its second annual concert and the following week the Theatre presented the highly entertaining "Mikado."

The baseball team tied for first in the Mid-Atlantic championships while the track team lost first laurels to Lafayette. The crew brought home a full-fledged championship with a victory in the Dad Vail Regatta, symbolic of small college supremacy.

Frank Conaty was elected Student Council president in the largest voting ever for that office. Examinations closed the year in early June but most of us returned in mid-June to take the Selective Service Deferment Test.

Seniors now, we returned in September to find many changes. Brother Christopher replaced Brother Stanislaus as Dean; the library began to take shape; John "Bear" Curran was named crew coach; Brother Cyril took over the registration duties of Dr. McCloskey; a government loan paved the way for the construction of dormitories.

The Harvest Dance once more officially opened the social season. Tom Darlington, '40, was the musical attraction to the seven hundred who attended.

Members of the English Department inaugurated a series on WFL-TV's "University of the Air." A Collegian poll predicted Joseph Clark and cohorts would make a clean sweep in the Philadelphia elections.

The Theatre opened its season with the popular comedy, "Harvey." The Varsity Club began to climb back to its former position of prominence on campus with a social at the Boathouse and the Evening Division held its first stag night.

Student Council conducted a successful clothing drive in conjunction with the Philadelphia drive for Clothes for Korea.

The Glee Club gave several renditions of the holiday carols throughout the city along with their annual recital before the student body.

Student Council secured 180 pints of blood for the Korean veterans when the Armed Forces Bloodmobile Unit visited the campus on a bleak day in January.

Howard Lanin was brought back for our final Blue and Gold Ball at the Bellevue.

Red Smith received the annual Collegian award.

The basketball team, hitherto beaten only by St. Louis, went into a tailspin with losses to St. Joe, Duquesne and unheralded Youngstown.

A later upset to Georgetown apparently knocked us out of the N.I.T. but we received a surprise bid to the tourney prior to walloping a Manhattan five.

From this low ebb rose the greatest thrill that most of us have experienced and certainly the greatest that La Salle has had in the field of sports.

Despite our underdog role, fifteen hundred traveled to New York to the opening and what proved to be the deciding tilt with Seton Hall. From that point on, the spirit of the team and the size of the crowd increased until the N.I.T. championship was ours.

The eight days which were needed to complete the tournament were completely dominated by basketball on the campus. Two inspiring rallies were the chief outlets for the over-bubbling enthusiasm.

Reverend Joseph L. King was the retreat master for our Holy Week retreat which was held prior to our Easter holidays.

The Society for the Advancement of Management took advantage of the recess to conduct an educational Business Forum on employment opportunities.

Capitalizing on the success of the "Mikado" from the year before, the Theatre presented another musical, "Watch the Curtain," which enjoyed a successful five-day run.

The Glee Club held its annual concert in May again and Evening Division fostered another successful Spring Dance.

We finished our final exams early and then entered into Senior Week, easily the most memorable days of our four years. It was not just the events, a Communion Breakfast, picnic stag and Dinner Dance, that accounted for this feeling, although each was a success in itself and a credit to President Bill Metzler and his assistants, who conducted and planned our many social get-togethers.

Rather, the constant realization that this was our final week of college, and for many, of school entirely, brought back the thoughts of our triumphs and failures and with them both joy and sadness.

But joy was easily the foremost emotion within us. Not one of us could leave that week without knowing and believing that we were better—better scholars, better men, better citizens and better Christians—none of us could leave without the joy of fulfillment that we had attained in these four years and were now ready to give satisfaction to ourselves, our families, our friends and to the world.

The success of any student group is measured by the efficiency of its governing body. The high degree of success which has been attained by the Evening Division in all its activities can be attributed directly or indirectly to the Student Congress. This body has consistently lent its moral support and physical cooperation in making the Evening Division an all-around success.

Organized by such stalwarts as Hugh Carroll, its first president, and continuing to perfection through the efforts of its present officers headed by John Quinlan, the Student Congress can be justifiably proud of its record.

Few organizations can boast of the rapid progress which the Student Congress has made since its inception. From all indications it would seem that the heights of achievement have been reached with the present administration, however, the undergraduates in the succeeding years will probably surpass the achievements of this group as the records urge them on to greater undertakings.

Many fine memories will be recalled in later years as this graduating class thinks of the happy moments they spent at such functions as the Senior Stag, held at Boat-house Row; the many nights spent in profitable and satisfying hours at the Evening classes and the enjoyable in-between periods spent in the student lounges. Many seniors will also recall to mind the delightful climax at the first Annual Senior Dance held at the Barclay Hotel. The years may rush by but time will never dim our memories of our nights at La Salle College.

Essential to any activity becoming successful is publicity. This was clearly indicated to the officials of the Evening Division and thus in September 1951, the Evening staff of the Collegian came into being. Beginning with a few columns, the division soon graduated to its own page entitled "La Salle After Dark." The Collegian staff of the Evening Division can be justifiably proud of the tremendously successful job they have accomplished in providing a channel for dissemination of all news to the students. Originators and leaders of this group include Raymond Vasoli, '54, and William Thorpe, '53. Praise must also be given to all the members of the staff. To this combination, add the high degree of cooperation that the Day Division extended and you have the makings of a successful undertaking—The Collegian's Evening Staff.

Marking the first year the Evening Division has its own section in the Explorer, the Explorer staff strived to set a precedent for future staffs to follow. To the men who worked to set down on paper the history of the graduating class must be extended a very hearty "well done."

French Club

One of the newest organizations on the Evening Division campus is the French Club. Its formal title, however, is "Les Chevaliers de La Salle." In its short history the club has increased its membership to approximately twenty-five from a beginning of nine members.

Dr. John A. Guisnard, Moderator, founded the group and has encouraged its continued growth. Throughout the college grounds it has promoted and advanced French culture. It has done this by sponsoring trips to various places of interest in the city that have some degree of French artistic design in their surroundings. The new year should see an even better program advanced by this group to aid it in its promotion of French culture.

The Marketing Association since its inception in the fall term of the 1951-52 school year has rapidly become one of the top organizations on the campus. Striving for greater recognition, it has recently affiliated itself with the American Marketing Association as a student chapter. All indications predict that this group will progress to greater honors in the not too distant future.

The Accounting Association

JOHN MURPHY, President; JOHN GIBBONS, Retired President;
ANTHONY KNOX, Treasurer.

Among the many organizations which had their beginning in the school year 1950-51, the Accounting Association stands out as an example of the desire of the Evening student to participate in extra-curricular activities. The association was organized for keeping the members of the Accounting classes posted on current news and modern practices in the field of Accounting. Its past undertakings and future plans are all indicative of a successful group and the charter members deserve much praise for their untiring effort to continue up the ladder of success.

Society for the Advancement of Management

Organized in the fall term of the school year 1951-52, S.A.M. has fulfilled the need for an organization which will provide the answers to many problems which our future alumni will meet in their path to becoming successful business men.

Capably directed by Dr. Bernard Goldner, Associate Professor of Industry, this organization has grown rapidly and its outlook for future expansion grows brighter.
